DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-15, 41, 55-57, 60 and 68 are presented for examination.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. The present invention is directed to matching a retailer item identifier with a corresponding manufacturer identifier to facilitate 3 different levels of points, retailers offers a first set of points, the manufacturer offers a second set of points and merchant grouping (i.e. shopping mall) offers a third set of points.

3. The closest prior art are:

4. Awadallah (7,127,414) teaches comparison shopping through a user interface using commonly used methods for context based advertisements retrieval and presentation. An example of such system is Google Adwords, wherein a number of links to retailer web sites are returned based on the classification of a search term entered into the Google search engine.

5. Deaton (6,292,786) teaches receiving product purchase information from a merchant at a POS. The product purchase information includes a UPC. The POS transmits the UPC to an UPC server in order to determine whether to offer an incentive to each customer.

6. Article titled, "UK Retailers' Loyal Customer Cards Wars Prove Costly" by Supermarket News teaches mailing loyal cards to consumers which contains targeted offers and menus.

7. Williams et al. (WO 00/33222) teaches presenting a consumer at a POS with a manufacturer incentive in order to incentivize the customer to said brands.

8. With respect to independent claim 1, the closest prior art alone or in combination fail to teach “ calculating a first set of reward points based on said consumer ID, said purchase price and a first currency to point ratio corresponding to a retailer item identifier; calculating a second set of reward points based on said consumer ID, said purchase price and a second currency to point ratio corresponding to said manufacturer item identifier; calculating a third set of reward points based on said consumer ID said purchase price and a third currency to point ratio corresponding to affiliated service Establishment numbers and combining said first set of reward points, said second set of reward points, and said third set of reward points within a loyalty account associated with said consumer ID”

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
